Additional Info About Car Insurance

When I came across the question of the car insurance quotes for the first time I was absolutely sure that the auto insurance coverage for some rare classic cars costs much more than for some ordinary vehicles. I thought that the car insurance rates depended on the high price of the classic car. But in fact I was mistaken.

The collectors of the classic autos don't pay much for a good coverage. Usually they are very proud of their valuable automobiles and try to protect them from any possible risks. As a rule they are not so young and rather well-educated. They have got an excellent driving history. Besides, the collectors of the old classic car are not inclined to drive their prized possessions out onto the open road often. According to the auto insurance companies' conditions a classic automobile must be kept in a good garage and must not exceed some definite mileage during a year. If the owner agrees to maintain these terms the premium is not going to be high.

So the collectors of the classic cars are in the group of very low risk. The variety of the prices is not as considerable as for the ordinary means of transport. Their cars are so well-protected even without auto insurance coverage. As a rule collectors can easily get their expensive cars insured with the cheap policies.

The owners of some modern exotic cars are not so lucky. If you want to buy some expensive unordinary modern car you must be ready to buy an expensive car insurance policy. The highest auto insurance rates are for the sports cars. They are classified as the exotic cars as well. Usually people obtain such a kind of the automobiles to enjoy the high speed on the road. The drivers of the sports cars get into the road accidents quite often. It is more difficult to buy parts for the exotic car if it needs the repairs. Besides, the bright exotic cars are supposed to be very attractive for the thieves. If you want the lower premiums you must supply your car with a really good antitheft system.

Nobody buys the exotic cars just for keeping them in the garage. Their owners try to get as much pleasure as possible driving them, boasting of them before friends and acquaintances and attracting the general attention to oneself and one's car. That's why the owners of the modern exotic cars are considered to be a group of the high risk.

The women owners of the exotic cars have got a considerable advantage over the men in the case of getting their cars insured. The car insurance providers think that women drive more carefully even if they drive some speed sports cars.
