Some Tendencies Of Modern Auto Insurance

Auto insurance is one of the most dynamic developing types of insurance in our country and in the whole world in general. Not only experts state it, but the statistics as well. There are many reasons for it, traffic situation in particular. Foreign guests coming to our country usually say about "crazy" drivers and "crazy" driving. So, many auto lovers do not risk to get in the streets and roads without being sure in the consequences of their driving. Besides, car stealing and hi-jacking are very spread nowadays. This type of "business" is very popular nowadays among those who want to get "easy" money.

Though there is enough just to have a look at the accident statistics in order to make up your mind whether to get your car insurance or not. Luckily, many problems occurring in the roads in accidents can be solved with the help of the insurance policies. Unfortunately, unlike the situation abroad, specialists say that a domestic market of the auto insurance is not ready for the clients' auto insurance demand. Such demand presupposes a great variety of the insurance products that have not been worked out and developed in our country. It is a pity, but many auto lovers say that the insurance companies cannot meet all demands of a client. Most often car owners cannot buy a full set of services provided by the companies. It is hardly possible to insure their vehicles against all possible types of risks and they are forced to set the priorities and select those that are possible to choose among those offered.

However the majority of people are afraid not so much of the injuries and damages done to them or their vehicle, they are mostly worried about the repair of somebody's car that was damaged in the result of the accident. It may threaten you with a big sum of money that you have to pay or even with the loss of your own property. That is why the insurance of civil liability is getting more and more popular among the auto owners. It constitutes the main share in the auto insurance portfolio.

There is one more tendency that is being developed at the moment. More and more car owners tend to select a complex insurance. Specialists say that it is explained not by a high fear to get into the accident, but a discount provided by insurance companies in case of complex insurance.

At present the only case of auto insurance that has been underestimated in our country is the insurance against the accident in traffic accident. It is a peculiarity of our mentality, but our drivers are more worried about the money for a good repair rather than money for a qualified medical service. The only explanation that can be given is a careless attitude of our people to their own health.
